Costume Class

Conformation Class: Is the model put together like the breed it's supposed to be? Are all the legs even, is the back too long? How is the paint job holding up on the model? Is he in mint condition? Is he covered in dust and scratches or absolutely pristine? Judges also consider factory flaws like overspray, lint in the paint, and bent legs.

Trail Class: The horse and rider should be dressed in traditional western gear. Horse should have a level headset like seen in a real trail class. Contestant will maneuver the horse and rider around a traditional trail course which may include things like opening gated, going over bridges, backing through poles, etc. Contestants will be judged on how effortlessly they maneuver horse and rider through the course, choice of tack and apparel for horse and rider, and choice in a horse that looks like it could actually be in a real trail class.

Drill Class: The horse and rider can be dressed in either western or english gear. They will follow instructions from the judge (walk, trot, reverse, dismount etc) and be judged on how accurately they follow the instructions.

Costume Class: This year's theme is military in honor of Veteran's Day. This class can show off either Breyer or entrant made costumes. Each contestant will be judged on their creativity and the overall look of the costume. Originality is a plus!
